

Download How To Write An Introduction For A Reflection Paper

Teachers and professors assign reflection papers to their students to gauge what the students know and what observations they have made through completing class assignments. Make an outline of your reflection paper. Decide what you want to write about and how many paragraphs the entire paper will be. Number each planned paragraph and write a one-sentence description of what the paragraph will talk about (i.e., Paragraph #3 -- The role of suicide in "The Catcher in the Rye"). Compile a short list of any assigned reading, textbooks or online resources you want to use to back up the claims and opinions you write about in your reflection paper. The reflection paper should open by giving the readers an idea what to write about. Make the introduction interesting by involving readers. Make sure that it prepares the readers on what they are going to read. To write a reflection paper, start with an introduction where you state any expectations you had for the reading, lesson, or experience you're reflecting on. At the end of your intro, include a thesis statement that explains how your views have changed. In the body of your essay, explain the conclusions you reached after the reading, lesson, or experience and discuss how you arrived at them. Finally, finish your paper with a succinct conclusion that explains what you've learned., How To Write An Introduction For A Reflection Paper.
